SHARON INTERVIEWED

"I believe Blaine will carry every Pacific state. The struggle in Nevada will be close. I don't care to say whether I shall vote for him. Edmunds was my first choice. I don't like Blaine's record. I am not taking an active part in the canvass. Judge Field stands next to Tilden as the choice of the California democracy, but there is no organized opposition as there is to Blaine."

The reporter asked: "What about the suit of Miss Hill against you?"

The Senator turned very red and struck the table forcibly with his fist and exclaimed: "It is a blackmailing scheme all the way through; a dastardly attempt to ruin me by an organized pool of political opponents, but they cannot injure me, sir, and public sentiment on the coast is entirely in my favor. The suit has been postponed for a few months, when I am confident this outrageous scheme will be fully exposed, and when the proper time comes I shall make the most responsible or it suffer. I return to Nevada in a few days. I am here on private business only."

WHY WE ARE SICK.

No device that can add to the comfort and convenience of a dwelling is omitted in our modern architecture, and money is not regarded when the luxury of clothing or beauty of personal adornment is in question. Hence we all live in better houses and wear better clothes than did our forefathers. Why should we not take the same better care of our health? Why should dyspepsia and the train of other diseases that follow it, almost unknown in the olden time, be so prevalent now? Simply because of the poisonous and indigestible trash which in these days is forced upon the public as genuine food, or used to adulterate the articles that go to make up the daily bill of fare of every household. Our forefathers were content to make money by plain and honest methods, but the hot competition of the present day and the strife for rapid riches have called forth all the ingenuity of modern science to devise cunning devices that shall enable the avaricious dealer to rapidly increase his profits even though he destroy the health of the public thereby. The ones principally in use are adulterated, impure, poisonous and bogus food on every hand.

The people buy these adulterated articles of food because they are cheap, entirely ignorant of their poisonous qualities. A few years ago this evil had reached such alarming proportions in England that the public sentiment demanded legislative interference and parliament enacted the most severe repressive laws. Dr. Snell, U. S. A., after an examination recently made under the direction of the war department, concludes that the adulteration of food is as great in this country to-day and of as dangerous a character as it was in England at the time referred to. No article entering so generally into the food of every family has been found more villainously adulterated than baking powder. For the purpose of underselling an absolutely pure powder like the Royal—which has become the standard for purity and strength in baking powders—unscrupulous dealers are putting up baking powders with cheap and adulterated cream of tartar containing lime, earth, etc., adding strength by the free use of alum. These powders are one of the chief causes of the dyspepsia from which the American people are suffering. This species of adulteration at least can be avoided by following the advice of Dr. Mott, the chemist to the government, who recommends consumers, when purchasing baking powder, to select one standard powder, as the Royal Baking Powder, rather than to risk purchasing adulterated compounds put upon the market by persons who have no higher motive than the gain of a few cents.

We hope to see congress take hold of this important matter in a sufficiently vigorous manner to put an end to the whole nefarious business. In the mean time, if people will be as careful to buy the best and purest food as they are to wear the best clothes and build the most comfortable houses, it will not be necessary to ask so frequently the question "Why are we sick?" Every scientific test has proven the Royal to be pure and wholesome.

In Favor of Defendant.

Boston, June 27.—The supreme court in the case of Charles Cowley against R. M. Pulsifer et al., proprietors of the Boston Herald, has given a decision of general interest to publishers of newspapers. A petition for the removal of Cowley from the bar was filed in the clerk's office of the supreme court, and the same being published in the Herald Cowley began suit for libel in the superior court. The presiding judge concurred in the views of counsel for defendant that as the petition had been filed in court it was a privileged communication, and ruled that plaintiff could not maintain his action and directed a verdict for defendant.

Terrible if True.

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—To find out about a report that ironers in Chinese laundries had struck for higher wages a reporter visited Tom Lee's establishment, where a deputy said: "Wages all go up at this season for clothes are ironed quicker. Ironers are content with what they can get in the winter, and don't care much; for laundrymen themselves can hardly make both ends meet, but the ironers want big wages now. If you were to offer a man $12 a week and his board at this season he would tell you he had no time to iron for you. A good ironer there is now no difficulty in getting."

Vanderbilts rallied ¼ to 1¼, but subsequently Lake Shore was freely pressed for sale and broke ½ to ¾. Michigan Central dropped to 51, New York Central 1½ to 1⅜ and Canada Southern 1⅝ to ... No new reasons were assigned for the decline, and the break was ascribed to bear attacks. The general list was weak and unsettled in sympathy with a rumor at 1 P. M. that the Vanderbilt party had negotiated a sterling loan, caused some buying for short account, and Michigan Central rallied to, Canada Southern to 31½, Lake Shore to 10¾ and New York Central to 9¼. WILD EXCITEMENT AT TORONTO

Toronto, June 27.—Federal bank stock opened at 81 and ran down to 65½. There is wild excitement on change and all sorts of rumors are afloat, one being that the Montreal and Merchants' bank is coming to the assistance of the Federal should a run take place.

Toronto, June 27.—It is stated on the best authority that the Montreal and Merchants' banks offered assistance to the Federal, but so far the offer has not been accepted, as the Federal has been able to meet all demands from its own resources. The bank people are cool and have unlimited confidence in the bank's ability to weather the storm. Prominent business men and bankers express confidence in the stability of the bank. The directors of the bank were in session with closed doors all afternoon discussing the situation, but their decision could not be ascertained.

WALL STREET NOTES

New York, June 27.—Officials of the Denver and Rio Grande refuse to make any statement about their July interest or to give any outline of the company's future plans.

President Harris of the Northern Pacific states: If the Northern Pacific can lease the Oregon Railway and Navigation at a profit we shall do so. I do not care to say whether or not negotiations are on foot for a lease of the property.

It is stated the Oregon and Transcontinental made a tender to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. yesterday afternoon after they had sold out additional margins. When the firm stated that the stock was sold the company gave the firm notice that when the loan became due it should expect the stock. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. decline to make any statement about the transaction.

THE O. AND C. LEASE.

The Tribune States that it has been Resigned by the Transcontinental.

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The Tribune has the following: Details of the agreement for cancellation of the lease of the Oregon and California railroad to the Oregon and Transcontinental company have been made, although possession of the property has not been surrendered. Private dispatches from Villard, who recently went to Europe for this purpose, have been received in this city, and the terms of the principal agreement have been accepted by the directors of the Oregon and Transcontinental company at the meeting in Portland, Oregon, and the Transcontinental company is released from all liabilities under the lease, and has surrendered about $2,000,000 of Oregon and California second mortgage bonds on condition that the latter company shall assume all construction accounts and debts and pay $400,000 in cash for the release of a part of the bonds which have been pledged by the Oregon and Transcontinental company. The total is estimated at about $300,000, so that the company has sold $2,500,000 Oregon and California bonds at about 33.

Elijah Smith, president of the Oregon and Transcontinental, said yesterday: "Do we get 33 or 30 on the dollar for the bonds? Well, that is more than I thought we could get. I should have been contented with 25 if I could not have got more."

RAILROAD NOTES.

A SEVERANCE OF RELATIONS

St. Louis, June 27.—The announcement is made this morning that the departments of the Missouri Pacific road, whose jurisdiction has been extended over the Wabash, will retire from that road, and the lines comprised in the Wabash system, operated independently of the Gould system proper, and under a new set of officers, the road in the future is to be operated by a much smaller force than now. The officers of the Wabash have been recently separated from those of the Missouri Pacific, both here and elsewhere, and all agents of the former will be instructed to compete with the latter the same as any other road.

WILL NOT BUILD A PARALLEL LINE

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The Post this evening says editorially: There is no intention on the part of the Northern Pacific company to build the projected road on the Columbia parallel with the Oregon Navigation line now or at any future time. The land is not worth the six or ten millions such a road would cost.

RUMORS AGAINST THE NORTHERN PACIFIC

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The World says: A number of rumors gained currency on Wall street yesterday which were denied, which stated that the Northern Pacific would have to borrow more money to pay its July interest. President Harris and Drexel, Morgan & Co. denied this.

Governor Newell has appointed Henry M. Lambe of Port Townsend, Samuel W. Brown of Vancouver, Benj. E. Sharpstein, of Walla Walla, commissioners to select a suitable site for a territorial penitentiary and report to the next legislative assembly pursuant to a law passed by the legislature of Washington at its last session.

SAD SHIPWRECK.

Barnegat City, N. J., June 27.—One of the most thrilling shipwrecks seen on this coast for years occurred yesterday afternoon. The schooner L. and A. Babcock, sailing from Somers Point and commanded by Captain Henry Babcock, which put out from Philadelphia a day or two ago loaded with coal for Boston, sprung a leak when off Bay head yesterday morning about 4 o'clock. The captain was compelled to run his vessel ahead of the wind all day, while the crew worked the pumps. At 4 o'clock the vessel was discovered making for station 14, just north of Barnegat inlet. The vessel was beached opposite the station in the hope of being relieved by the life saving crew. The captain of station 15, however, was not at his post, and as the vessel began to go to pieces Captain Joe Reed of station 13, three miles distant, rushed to the assistance of the wreck and arrived there in time to throw a line over the vessel, but the members of the crew were so weak from working the pumps that they could not draw the rope through the surf, and the vessel broke to pieces while they were endeavoring to do so. In one hour after the vessel struck nothing could be discerned but a lot of broken pieces of timber.

The first to go from the vessel was Mrs. Carbough, wife of the mate. She was struck by a falling spar while being held by her husband and was knocked from his arms into the sea. Her husband immediately sprang after her and was afterward picked up on the beach unconscious. A Swede seaman swam ashore. The captain, the mate's wife and three seamen were drowned. The mate's wife had borne up bravely from the time of the springing of the leak until the going to pieces of the vessel, when her shrieks were heartrending.

It is feared other wrecks have taken place, as the beach is strewn with drift and Virginia pine wood. The storm was terrible. Cars standing on the narrow gauge road were blown over and no boats left either at this place or Beach Haven to connect with the railroad. Many people watched the vessel go to pieces.

THE TURF.

CASE'S MANAGER INTERVIEWED

Detroit, Mich., June 27.—W. H. Crawford, manager of J. I. Case, owner of Jay Eye See, is in the city attending the races. Upon being questioned relative to the Jay Eye See challenge and the highly moral ground taken by Vanderbilt in relation thereto, assuming that the challenge was directed to Maud S., Crawford said: "I don't see why Vanderbilt accepted the challenge as being addressed to him, for neither Maud S., nor Clingstone or their owners' names were mentioned. Case has not seen his horse for two months and knew nothing of the challenge, which was merely an open letter accompanied by a $5000 forfeit, an earnest that Jay Eye See is ready to trot any horse as stated. It is quite an amusing view of the fact that Vanderbilt should be surprised at the impudence which prompted the challenge, and that he asserts that he never trots his horse for money. Maud S. has, since she has been the property of Vanderbilt, trotted at least a dozen times against the best horses and on the best tracks in the country, and in each instance for money, and her earnings have been considerable for her owner and manager. In addition it may be stated that on July 4, 1881, Maud S., then owned by Vanderbilt, trotted for gate money over the Detroit Driving Club's present track."

VANDERBILT LOSES HIS TEMPER

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The Commercial reports Vanderbilt as saying to a reporter who asked: "If Jay Eye See should beat Maud S.' record would you consent to a private trial between them?"

"Not at all. I'm not a horseman. It's all blanked nonsense that is not my business. People must take me for a devilish fool to think I will enter it to the hippodrome. I have a letter in my pocket now saying Maud S. can beat her record three or four seconds. I know she can, but I see the dodge. I don't intend to be the bait. They wanted me to buy Jay Eye See some time ago, but I wouldn't do it. What do I want of a little thing only four years old? I wouldn't give two dollars for it. If any horse outside of Jay Eye See should beat Maud S.' record I would buy him if I liked him, and I would be the owner, not the public."

Tired of Life.

Oakland, June 27.—The dead bodies of a man and woman were found to-day near Fruit Vale, Alameda county. Investigation brought out the following facts: On Wednesday last a man accompanied by a woman registered at a hotel in Oakland as A. Johnson. They left the hotel and nothing was heard of them until the finding of the bodies to-day by children playing in the vicinity of where the tragedy occurred. The circumstances lead to the belief that it was mutually agreed by the pair to die together, and that the man first shot the woman, and having made certain of her death placed the revolver in his mouth and blew his own brains out. A note was found on the body of the man which indicated that the couple were married and that the cause that led to the fatal deed was the loss of $40, all the money they possessed.

Wounds an Officer and Kills Himself.

San Francisco, June 27.—George J. Lowengart, aged 21, fired four shots at Policeman Christy for attempting to arrest him this morning, and then shot himself dead. The officer's wound is a slight one. The shooting took place inside the store of Sellers, on Battery street. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by Samuel Sellers, charging Lowengart with threatening Sellers' (who is Lowengart's uncle) life. The threat was made on account of Sellers refusing his nephew $5,000. Sellers refused the request because his nephew had been losing large amounts of money lately at stud horse poker.

The Raft Venture a Failure.

San Francisco, June 27.—The tug Escort, which left Coos Bay on the 20th with five rafts of piles and logs in tow, arrived in port to-day without the rafts. On Monday, when about twenty miles southwest of Port Orford, a heavy sea was encountered, resulting in the rafts going to pieces. After towing the gear for some time it was cut loose, only about eighteen fathoms of the chain being saved. The lost logs contained about 1,000,000 feet of lumber.

New Steamer for Coos Bay.

The Union iron works has recently secured a contract from the Newport Coal Company of this city to construct a steel steamer of the register of between 700 and 800 tons, and that will carry 1000 tons of coal and have 13 feet draft. She is to have first class accommodations for thirty-two cabin passengers, and will be used in the coal trade between this port and Coos bay.

A Lively Contest Promised.

[Special.]—The contest in the coming republican convention for the congressional nomination for the fourth district, which includes this city, promises to be a lively one. The principal candidates are W. W. Morrow and State Senator McClure. According to the canons of political reasoning each has strong claims, and each certainly has strong partisans.

The Central Pacific Solid.

[Special.]—An effort has been made to create a sensation out of the fact that the Central Pacific Railroad Company has postponed payment of certain bills for a month. Nobody seriously thinks the company is embarrassed, and even if it were in need of money its credit is gilt edge in the financial markets of the world.

The Charge Dismissed.

The charge against Captain Maury of the steamer City of Tokio of having concealed a case of smallpox on his vessel was dismissed to-day, no carelessness or criminal intent to conceal having been shown.

Death of Cecil Nest.

Cecil Nest, of the firm of Nest, Greensweig & Co., jewelers, died to-day at New York. He was ill but a few days of inflammation of the bowels.

Shipping Intelligence.

Idaho.

From present appearances, says the Nez Perce News, Fort Lapwai will soon be deserted by U. S. troops. Orders have been received at the fort to hold all in readiness for removal. A detachment of ten men, in charge of Lieutenant Earle, will be left at the post with ninety days' provisions. Arrangements have been made with parties in Lewiston to transport equipments and supplies to the wharf. This abandonment will leave the stock of the country entirely at the mercy of marauders now roaming about the country.

WASHINGTON.

THE STATEMENT PROVED TO BE UNTRUE.

The Cholera Epidemic at Toulon.

Washington, June 27.—The surgeon general of the marine hospital service received the following telegram to-day through the state department from the United States consul at Marseilles: "The situation at Toulon is rather worse. There were nine deaths Wednesday and ten deaths Thursday. There are sixty-two new cases not at the naval hospital. The disease thus far is epidemic."

Nominations.

Appointed Surveyor General.

Washington, June 27.—The president has appointed John W. Meldrum surveyor general of Wyoming.

House.

Washington, June 27.—Henley made an unsuccessful attempt to secure consideration of the Northern Pacific forfeiture bill, and the house went into committee of the whole, Cox of New York in the chair, on the private calendar.

At 1 o'clock the committee rose for the purpose of permitting the house to dispose of the backbone forfeiture bill. The speaker announced that the question would be on a motion to table a motion to reconsider the vote by which the house yesterday defeated the backbone forfeiture bill.

The motion to table was agreed to—yeas 124, nays 114—so the bill was lost.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of private business, and the following bills were passed:

To relieve certain soldiers in the late war from the charge of desertion.

For the relief of Myra Clark Gaines.

Valentine, rising to a question of privilege, said some days ago the gentleman from New Jersey (McAdoo) had taken occasion to print as a part of his remarks a very long dispatch sent from his city to New York. It contained the names of our native land monopolists, saying a full list would fill every page of paper. In this list of names as printed in the Record to-day appeared the name of Senator John A. Logan as owning 80,000 acres of land. Senator Logan had called his (Valentine's) attention to this to-day and had desired him to say to the house that so far as it related to him the statement was absolutely false. The only land he owned was a little homestead in Illinois. The gentleman from New Jersey had taken occasion, while he was lauding the soldiers of the land, to stab one of the brightest and most gallant of those soldiers. [Great applause on the republican side.]

Cox of New York, in order to show as he expressed it how the gentlemen on the other side attempted to strain at a gnat and swallow a menagerie of camels, quoted from a speech printed by Brewer (New Jersey) upon the tariff, in which that gentleman made a very lengthy extract from Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress," the speech in fact consisting almost wholly of extract.

O'Neill (Mo.) suggested that the title of the book be amended by adding the words "and attributed at last."

McAdoo explained the circumstance which led to his obtaining leave to print the speech, and he desired to say that he did not retract one word of that speech. He accepted the authorship in its entirety. He did not consider for one moment that he had violated any rule of courtesy and of equity or any rule of manliness in its publication. He had done what frequently had been done. He had incorporated in his speech a newspaper article without comment. That article had been published last January, and had been copied from Maine to California. There had not been a line of contradiction from the super-sensitive senator or his friends in regard to his name in that list.

Cannon said that the Record did not show that the speech had been delivered.

McAdoo, continuing, said the gentleman from Illinois had printed his speech, and therefore the Record on its face misled the house and the country. He says he brought the matter before the house because the Record had been violated. If the gentleman knew better than that it was to his integrity it was not to bring the house's attention to a violation of the rules. It was simply because the gentleman had put the name of John A. Logan in the list. So far as the question of the Record was concerned he believed the gentleman himself had not delivered his tariff speech.

McAdoo said that in the Record of April 23 he found the following: "Mr. Cannon addressed the committee. His remarks will appear hereafter." Did the Record lie?

Cannon said he would reply in his own time.

McAdoo said if he had done as this gentleman did, instead of printing such a fair thing as a newspaper article and giving the newspaper and date of publication, he might have asked the soldiers what they thought of a great senator who in his greed to absorb territory which belonged to actual settlers (land which was made for independent freeholders and small farmers) went under cover of his brother-in-law to New Mexico and tried to preempt most valuable land, and who was only stopped by the public surveyor who found it belonged to another of the class he professed the greatest friendship for (and rumor even had it that he had Indian blood in his veins). He was trying to steal from his own kith and kin hundreds of thousands of acres, and was taking them from the unfortunate savages who were unable to protect themselves until an honest secretary of the interior had directed the surveyor to take back the lands for the Indians. [Loud applause and laughter on the democratic side.] He (McAdoo) might have said this, but he thanked heaven that his association with a party of honest men had prevented his hurling such innuendo against any man. He left this a subject for the house. He was sneaking behind no newspaper. He would not wrong a living man, be he high or low, but he had simply put into his speech, without comment, a newspaper article which had been staring the people in the face for months.

Hepburn had read for information an amendment which he proposed to offer as a resolution to have the Record of June 1st amended so as to show that the speech purporting to have been delivered by Cutcheon on the contract labor bill had not actually been delivered in that speech. Cutcheon had made an assault on the democratic party, and as unfair and unjust an assault against the author of the bill.

Hawley gave notice of an amendment directing the official reporters to publish in the Record the remarks of that member reflecting on General U. S. Grant made upon the Fitz John Porter bill and suppressed from the Record. [Laughter and applause on the democratic side.] The Record, he said, had been somewhat marred by withdrawing from it a scurrilous and vindictive attack upon General Grant. He offered this amendment in the interest of honesty and fair play, and in order to relieve the embarrassment of the newspaper reporters, who having telegraphed a report of the gentleman's speech found on examining the Record next morning that they had lied or somebody else had. [Laughter.]

Cox of New York gave notice of an amendment to strike a supposed speech of Brewer of New Jersey from the Record of June.

Cannon was on his feet to reply to McAdoo when the hour of 5 o'clock arrived, and the speaker amid much merriment declared the house in recess until 8 o'clock. The evening session is for the consideration of pension bills.

The house at the evening session discussed pension bills and without action adjourned.

Senate.

Washington, June 27.—In the senate to-day Mahone reported favorably from the committee on education and labor the bill introduced by Senator Blair to provide for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, workmen and mechanics arising under the eight hour law.

Senator Mitchell introduced to-day a bill to incorporate the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The bill was passed granting the right of way through the Indian territory to the Southern Kansas railway.

The house bill was passed authorizing the extension of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway to a point on the military lands at Fortress Monroe.

Gill from the committee on appropriations reported the general deficiency appropriation bill with amendments. He will call it up to-morrow.

Unfinished business was then laid before the senate, being the bill providing for forfeiture of unearned lands granted the Atlantic and Pacific railway company.

Morgan offered an amendment to take the place of the provision restoring the lands to the public domain and the resumption of title by the United States. The amendment authorizes and directs the circuit court for the western district of Missouri to hear and determine all questions arising out of claims for land declared forfeited. It directs the United States attorney of that district to proceed in that court in the name of the United States, claiming as plaintiff against any person or corporation claiming an interest in the lands referred to, so as to bring the subject before the court. It gives either party to the proceeding the right to appeal to the supreme court of the United States, and directs that court to advance such cases on its calendar.

A long debate ensued, and finally a motion to go into executive session prevailed. Before the doors closed, however, Hawley called the attention of the senate to a statement in the Record that Senator Logan owned 80,000 acres of land. This statement he said was untrue. The gentleman referred to is only owner of the land on which his father died, and to which he has added a little in his own state of Illinois.

Alluding to the same matter, Logan said: "The statement is utterly false. I do not propose to give a schedule of my property to anybody, but the property I do own is in the state of Illinois. I do own some two or three tracts of land, but all put together it would not make the one hundredth part of what they charge."

The senate discharged the committee on privileges and elections from further consideration of the house bill on the electoral count and ordered a committee of conference on it.

After an executive session the senate adjourned.

Montana.

"Better you don't come any further or somebody's darling might get hurt," is the suggestive warning written on a card by the Beaver creek horsethieves, and tacked on a tree beside their trail.

The grand jury at the present term of court at Bozeman contained among its members more old timers than any body of like number that has assembled in the territory for many years. Of the sixteen citizens composing the jury three came to Montana in '62, three in '63, four in '64, three in '65, and one in '67, '70 and '79 respectively.

THE FORTIFICATIONS BILL.

It Secures a Favorable Report from the House Committee—8 to 7.

Washington, June 27.—The house appropriations committee, by a vote of 8 to 7 (Hancock of Texas and Ellis of Louisiana, democrats, voting with the republicans against the other democrats led by Randall and Holman), has agreed to report the bill appropriating $3,070,000 for fortifications and armament for the next fiscal year. Randall and Holman protested strenuously, but Horr (Michigan), who has been engineering the movement for months, quietly dropped $200,000 out of the torpedo clause, reducing the total appropriation to $3,070,000 and securing the continued support of Hancock and Ellis. This forced the bill through. The fight in the committee was a very hot one. Finally Randall was outvoted and could only say that Holman and he protested strongly against this unusually large appropriation and would present a minority report. The original bill provided for a continuance of the existing work, and some torpedo and gun experiments at a total cost of about $650,000. The bill as agreed upon appropriates $1,000,000 for existing works and for the construction of new works for the defense of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Hampton Roads, New Orleans and San Francisco; for the same purposes at other ports $300,000; for torpedo and submarine experiments $170,000; for armament, etc., $600,000; for the procurement of heavy steel rifle guns for armament at deep water ports a permanent annual appropriation of $1,000,000 is made for three years from June 30, 1884. Not more than $500,000 of the first year's appropriation is to be used for such twelve inch rifle mortars or guns as the immediate exigencies may seem to require.

American manufacturers are to be patronized, provided their prices do not exceed by more than 10 per cent the prices in England or Europe. It shall be unlawful hereafter to construct more than one rifle cannon of any sort until it has been demonstrated to be equal to the best guns known to any military service. To aid the secretary of war in the execution of this law an advisory board of five army officers is created, consisting of the general commanding the division of the Atlantic, the chief of ordnance, the chief of engineers, the president of the army ordnance board and the commandant of the Willets point torpedo school.

THE EAST SIDE.

THE ADVENTISTS

The tented worshipers still keep up their religious exercises with apparent zest. The cold wet weather of the few days past has not seemed to cool their ardor in the least. The exercises on Thursday consisted mainly of business connected with their missionary and ministerial work. A bible reading was held in the afternoon by Elder W. C. White on the Bible plan of supporting the ministry. The several scriptures read revealed a systematic plan of support—that is, a plan which calls for each member of the church to contribute according to his or her financial prosperity.

In the evening Mrs. White spoke from the words of St. Peter found in his first epistle, first chapter and verses 5-9. The speaker showed the necessity of progressive steps in the Christian life. This includes not only improvement in our manner of doing what is enjoined upon us as duty, but a constant growth in the knowledge of God's will. Carefulness and diligence relative to these points, said the speaker, bring the approval of God upon the efforts. Success in these, as in all points of Christian duty, depends on our reliance on God and unwavering faith in Jesus Christ.

At the early morning meeting yesterday a general move was made among the young and backsliders, and many came forward for prayers. Deep feeling was manifested by nearly all of these. At 10 o'clock the same work was entered upon and a regular old fashion revival meeting was soon in operation. This was kept up until 12 o'clock, during which time many bore testimony, some with weeping as they recounted their past lives and expressed a desire to reform.

The business of the conference was resumed at 10:30 and the officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Elder C. S. Boyd of East Portland; secretary, H. W. Reed, East Portland; treasurer, D. Dickinson, Salem; other members of the executive board, J. D. Graham (Iowa) and J. C. Hall. Elder Waggoner spoke last night from two texts, Rom. 3:28 and 3:20. He showed the perpetuity of the ten commandments in the Christian age, affirming that the letter of each precept is just as obligatory now as when delivered from Sinai, but that it has no justifying power to the sinner.

Mrs. White will speak to-morrow afternoon on the subject of temperance.

LIGHT WANTED

The recent improvements made at the Stark street ferry landing in Portland and the L street landing in East Portland in having new and comfortable waiting rooms erected is a great convenience to the patrons of the ferry, and great credit is due the ferry company for their efforts to please the public. Now if the company will go a little further and have suitable lights put in the rooms, so that the occupants of the room may be seen. Ladies especially, who have reason to cross the ferry after dark, say they do not like to enter the rooms without being able to see who the occupants are. The company will no doubt give the matter due consideration.

EAST PORTLAND VS. PORTLAND

The double scull race, which is to take place on the Fourth of July next between John Sellwood and P. W. Thompson of East Portland and two young gentlemen of Portland, is likely to be quite an interesting affair. Sellwood and Thompson are both doing some hard training for the past week. They have been walking to Mount Tabor and running back each morning for five mornings in succession and feel greatly strengthened and invigorated thereby. They are satisfied that they will come out winners in the contest.

CONCERT

The grand concert to be given at Neppach's hall this evening by Professor Meyer, assisted by his pupils and several East Portland amateurs, promises to be a very enjoyable one and well worthy of patronage. The following is the programme: E. Claire Y. Archer, Professor Meyer; Swedish violin, E. K. Emmett; Miss Fannie Bullock, Chanson des Alpes; F. P. Ryder, Miss Retta [illegible], Cleopatra polka; cornet solo, R. Flunkerford; Mr. John Everest, pianist; Professor Meyer, recitation; Miss Blanche McCook, instrumental duet by two young ladies; Favorite, Y. Archer, Professor Meyer; Miss Florence Dalton, Miss Carrie Dalton, sonata op. 41 Khulau; Miss A. Shigree, vocal; Mr. and Mrs. Bullock, Rain Drops; Marche de Concert, Professor Meyer.

A MISUNDERSTANDING

The committee on raising funds for the Fourth of July celebration in this city were over in Portland yesterday among their friends requesting them to contribute for that purpose. They report that they did very well and would have done much better if other parties had not been soliciting funds ostensibly for the same object. In other words, parties in Portland say they have already subscribed money, thinking it was for the general celebration in East Portland, and now they find that the money has been subscribed to be expended in a display of fireworks for Portland.

NOTES

Sergeant John Arnspiker of Company F, East Portland City Guard, has received the appointment of quartermaster sergeant of the First battalion, Oregon state militia.

A 2 year old child of Captain Charles Gore, who resides on Eighth street between G and H, died Thursday from scarlet fever after a sickness of only four days. Funeral took place yesterday.

The funeral services over the remains of Miss Jennie Barouch took place Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mr. T. DeClark, corner of Fourth and F streets, Rev. D. O. Ghormley of the First Presbyterian church of this city officiating. The remains were followed to Lone Fir cemetery by a large number of sympathizing friends.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

Most of the hop growers of Linn county have already hired their pickers. The Siletz and Warm Spring Indians will do nearly all of it. The yield this year will be good.

Corvallis Gazette: The heavy rain storm which visited this section of the valley last Monday is reported as having done some damage in the way of knocking down the heavy fall grain to some extent. It is hoped that the reports from the country are not as bad as at first supposed.

Eastern Oregon.

There is complaint of horse stealing in Wasco county.

On Wednesday last a man and horse were struck by lightning in Indian Valley, Oregon, and instantly killed. The name of the victim could not be learned.

A corporation under the name of the Eastern Oregon Agricultural Association has been organized at Pendleton for the purpose of promoting the training and improvement of blooded stock and to encourage agricultural and horticultural pursuits. The capital stock is fixed at $10,000.

Tracklaying progresses on the Baker City branch at the rate of a mile and a quarter a day. It is some miles beyond La Grande. Seventeen miles of heavy work are yet to be done before a junction is formed with the Oregon Short Line. The junction, well informed men tell us, will not be made before October or November next.

The town of Heppner, Umatilla county, enjoyed rather a sudden rise in its creek on the evening of the 21st. Heavy rains or perhaps cloudbursts along the western spur of the Blue mountains was the cause, and the water came down every creek and gulch with a mighty rush. At Heppner several gardens were flooded, and when the water went down presented rather a sickly appearance, covered with sediment, dirt and debris. About $1000 worth of mill feed was spoiled in the lower part of the Heppner mill. Several bridges above and at Heppner were carried away and many cords of wood went downward with the flood. In almost no time the water in Willow creek raised ten feet. Several patches of fencing above the town were carried away, and gardens and grain fields were more or less injured. The bridge across Rhea creek at the mouth of M. Kinney was washed away, and Mr. W. B. Cunningham's house at that point was flooded and almost carried off.

The water has not come up enough to injure grain or root crops on the Columbia bottoms to any extent, but proves more beneficial than otherwise.

A gentleman from the Puyallup informs the editor of a Tacoma exchange that the recent heavy rains did a great deal of good in that valley, especially to the hop crops.

Sunday afternoon there was a cloud burst in the mountains at the head of [illegible], which precipitated a [illegible] of water. Fortunately no serious damage resulted.

A large poplar tree was struck by lightning yesterday on South [illegible], near Craig. The tree was cleaned of its branches and bark from the top to within six feet of the ground, where it was broken off clean.

The recent smash up on the Northern Pacific railroad near Palouse Junction damaged $7,000 worth of property. Only one of the four tramps injured died, and the others in the hospital at Spokane Falls are in a fair way to recover.

During the storm Sunday a cloudburst occurred on the Touchet near Frazier's and Martin Luckenbill's places. Wm. Stahl, who saw the phenomenon, says that the water in the river rose fifteen feet in two minutes. The damage to the Luckenbill place in destruction of corrals, etc., is estimated at $500. The roads in that neighborhood are badly washed out.

One of the pioneer settlers of Walla Walla valley, Timothy P. Denny, died Thursday in Walla Walla at an advanced age. Mr. Denny settled on Dry creek near the Mullan road in 1859, where he resided for many years engaged in tilling the soil. By industry and thrift he accumulated considerable money, part of which he invested in lands and lots in Walla Walla.

Lewisville, the little hamlet at Hall's bridge on the east fork of Lewis river, will celebrate the Fourth of July by a grand basket picnic, where friends and neighbors will meet together for recreation and a good time. The programme includes a salute, music, reading, orations, toasts, dancing, to be followed by foot racing and other sports, and last but not least, a feast.

Goldendale Gazette: Those who have been traveling over the country say the grain crops in this vicinity are far above the average. The fact is that our soil stands a drouth far better than that of most localities. Within a few days we have had rain enough to insure fair crops throughout Klickitat county. In many cases the yield of grain promises to be excellent, and the garden stuff as good as the owners could desire. The best farmers we have say that summer fallowing and fall sowing is the thing.

Last Sunday morning a man named James Brown, employed at Fry's mill, Dayton, became involved in a quarrel with the Chinese cook and knocked the obstreperous celestial down, but was immediately taken off by the other men. The Chinaman then procured a butcher knife and attacked Brown, cutting him severely on the temple, neck and arm. Brown then grabbed a gun and the Chinaman ran off, closely followed by a bullet which failed to stop him. The Chinaman arrived in Dayton in the evening and was locked up by Deputy Cavanaugh. He has a cut on the head and wrist, but it is not known yet how badly Brown is hurt.

Walla Walla exchange: Some fears being expressed that the late severe rainstorms had damaged crops, we made inquiries of several careful observers from various parts of the country, and become satisfied that the fears were groundless. One farmer remarked: "Where the rain injured one acre it benefited two or three hundred acres." Many fields that were not deemed worth cutting are now expected to yield fair crops. Fall grain was benefited by the addition of moisture on which to draw for full heads, while spring grain was benefited from the remotest rootlet to the extremest leaflet.

No less than five eastern and California hop men are at present in the Duwamish, White and Stuck valleys contracting for this season's crop. A number of growers, says the Seattle Herald, contracted early in the season at fifteen cents per pound, and now they feel like kicking themselves, as the contract rates are said to have jumped to twenty-two and a half cents. In one instance at least as high as twenty five cents has been offered and refused by a shrewd grower. The up river growers who keep posted on the market claim that prices will run up to seventy five cents before January, 1885. Should this prophecy be realized every farmer in this and Pierce county who refused to contract will be made independently rich. All the farmers are more than delighted with the season's outlook. All classes of produce will be high this fall, including hops, onions, hay and potatoes.

Under the heading of "Doings at the Fort," the Port Townsend Argus of the 24th says: "Bennett, the soldier who burglarized J. T. Brown's store at Fort Townsend a few weeks ago, was adjudged guilty by a court-martial recently, and sentenced to five years at Alcatraz. Kirkwood, an old soldier who served in the late rebellion, and was at one time among the captives at Andersonville prison, has been 'fired out' of the army ranks for general worthlessness, and a little 'queerness.' He is said to be a man of no mean ability, but of late has become a sot. A soldier, Skinner by name, has been sentenced to four months' imprisonment at Vancouver barracks, after which he will be expelled from the service. Skinner was the chap who purloined a hundred pound keg of paint, brought it to this place and sold it a few weeks ago. Frazer, another soldier, has been martialed out of the service."

A GROWL AT RAILROAD MAIL CARRIERS.

Salem, June 26, 1884.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

One or two mistakes in as many months may be excusable, but the manner in which mail matter is distributed by the O. & C. railroad company between Portland and Salem is not excusable. I have known for a long time that mail matter for Salem was carried up the road on the 10:20 train and returned on the 1:20 train going north, but this has been done with my mail matter twice in the last two days. Packages for which I was in great need were received by way of Albany, when they could not have come on the preceding day. If our mail matter from Portland must come by way of Albany, then let it be known and save vexation. If those in charge of the mails are overworked they ought to have assistance. The government pays for good service and ought to have it. It may be claimed that the fault lies in the office here, but when matter is taken from the southern mail bag and put in my box it contradicts any such impression. BULLIX.

I am a practicing physician residing permanently in this place. In the year 1843, when a resident of the State of Missouri, I became acquainted with the superior virtues of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by you. At some more leisure moment I will send you the result of an experiment I made with one vial, in expelling upwards of 900 worms.

L. CARTER, M. D.

New York.

I do hereby certify to the public that a child of mine, four years old, being troubled with worms, I was induced to purchase a bottle of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., which I administered, and the result was, it brought away an immense number of worms in bunches and strings, many had the appearance of being cut to pieces. My child is now enjoying most excellent health. I take pleasure in recommending it to both young and old, as one of the best medicines I ever used.

MRS. ANN JEMISON, 38 Ninth Street.

Mrs. Quigby, No. 182 Essex street, New York, writes us that she had a child which had been unwell for better than two months, she procured a bottle of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and administered it. The child passed a large quantity of worms.

OLD MIDDLETON'S MONEY

Let us hope that there is not another such bank in the world as Middleton's of Washington, D C and no other such "bankers" as the Middletons themselves A faro bank is a school of morals as compared to Middleton's. The faro bank is known to be a place where the chances are largely against ever drawing out anything that is put in There is no misunderstanding or breach of confidence about it The chances are that the dealer will manipulate matters so as to reduce even the regular chances of the game yet people have no excuse for not understanding all these things and keeping away from the faro bank.

Middleton's was supposed to be a place where reputable citizens and responsible business men received deposits and cared for them and it turned out to be a place where the Middletons took in money and kept it. They had many depositors, and some of them left money and securities remain so long that the bankers seemed to think that they owned them This was the case of the Hon. James McKenney, clerk of the supreme court of the United States Mr McKenney has been the close friend from boyhood of D W Middleton jr and succeeded Mr Middleton sr, as clerk of the court and his confidence was therefore unbounded in Middleton, jr His deposits in the securities and money with the firm amounted to the large sum of $81,000, every dollar of which is lost They not only took his money in the general default, but cut open the envelopes in which he had placed his securities such as bonds and stocks, for safe-keeping and sold them Mr McKenney has nothing but the plundered envelopes to show for the savings of a lifetime though part of this amount belonged to the court. The magnitude of this transaction shows the extent to which the robberies reached but Mr McKenney is still clerk of the supreme court and can make more money, though he may not have confidence enough in banks to ever leave it in one again But the worst of the rascality is seen in such cases as the widow Chisholm, whose husband was murdered in Mississippi She had in the bank between one and two thousand dollars in securities, all of which were taken out of the envelopes—stolen from her by the very men entrusted with their protection from thieves Many women and not a few men, regard a bank as a place where earnings are safe, and this proves that it is so, with a few such exceptions as this, while this exception proves that people ought to know more than they do about their own affairs and trust less of other people. There were depositors in this bank who do not know how much they lost—people who had a habit of tumbling everything they had in the shape of money or valuable paper into this bank and sleeping soundly with the assurance that it was secure The facts as printed in the Washington papers show a remarkable state of carelessness on all hands depositors and bankers ending in a great robbery on the inside Clerks with small salaries, many newspaper correspondents, business men and messenger boys, all carried their money there to be stolen from behind the wire screens and out of the bulky iron safes Perhaps there is no help for it, but there is certainly punishment for it. It may be that there is no such thing as security behind which, at last, it must not all depend upon the honesty of one or two men, but it is worth while, at least in view of the many small depositors who have their savings for their future dependence, to show up the Middletons wherever they are discovered and let these uncommon instances teach care on both sides, without necessarily placing bankers under doubts and suspicions or causing any worry on the part of depositors If there had been some way of knowing what was going on in this dishonest bank from month to month such a catastrophe would have been impossible These envelopes were not all cut open in one day or one week It was a systematic, prolonged and undisturbed robbery of poor people

TWO SOUTHERN STATES

As a general thing we have found that enthusiastic promises of southern states to the republican nominee have never been realized upon in the outcome but every four years gives time for much change, as we have seen in the gradual bifurcation of Mahone several years ago brought at last to a point at which we see him acting in a republican convention There is no state, north or south, where there have been so many changes as in Virginia The effect of the republican nominations at Chicago is already seen there. The democrats in their nominations for congress, are disposed to ignore the strict bourbons and where possible to induce readjusters to run They have also abandoned their purpose of calling an extra session of the legislature A prominent Virginian says

The nomination of Mr Blaine has thrown the republican party of the state into a solid phalanx against bourbonism, and thus the possibility of securing enough votes from the republicans to pass a law taking the election machinery out of the hands of the republican party is gone Should the legislature be convened there is no chance of passing over the governor's veto the election laws of the last session, and this would be the only cause for an extra session Not only do the liberal republican members of the senate refuse to sign the call for an extra session but the straightout republicans also decline There will, therefore, be a fair election this fall in Virginia and the state is a most sure to go republican Some claim a majority of 20,000 for Blaine Campaign clubs are forming in many parts of the state, and the pine cone as an emblem has been adopted

It is a very important change of affairs in that state to see so many of the straightouts and readjusters coming nearer together in their mutual anxiety to effect the same purpose, so far as the state's attitude toward the parties, nationally speaking, is concerned. The situation in North Carolina is strikingly similar to that in Virginia. The coalition movement there last year only lacked 411 votes of carrying the state, and York, congressman at large was elected on that ticket. York has now been nominated as the candidate for governor by the same coalition, with a republican for lieutenant-governor The coalition would have carried the state last year but for the fact that there was a straightout republican bolt similar to that led by Dezendorf in Virginia. These republican straightouts, however were Blaine men, and they are expected now to cordially support the ticket The coalition programme is not to have the republicans nominate a state ticket, but to endorse this coalition ticket The coalition elements are all as enthusiastic and united as they were last year with better hopes of success The Bourbons are more divided and alarmed, and the coalition will be aided by the disaffected republicans of last year. So that the district attorney who is in Washington, in conference with the republican leaders, thinks that there is a reasonable hope of carrying North Carolina for the republican ticket North Carolina has eleven electoral votes and Virginia has twelve These states are riper for republican success than ever before, and there will be abler campaign harvesters to gather them in than ever before, so far as the management is concerned.

An eastern democrat, discussing the thoroughness with which the Blaine and Logan men are organizing at this stage of the campaign is reported as saying, "The republicans will have their campaign fully organized and have a grip on the entire country before we know who our leader is to be, Yet I have the start of nearly a month now, and the indications are that we will be so disappointed in the selection of our leader that it'll take us another six weeks to get our campaign organized"

It becomes plainer and plainer every day that Ben Butler has all his forces out working the wires. There will be several strong "hollerin'" delegations at Chicago in the interests of the great candidate for two parties already to hurrah for the next to nominate.

SHE WISHES SHE WERE A BOY

There was once the histories tell us a French princess who was so much of a tomboy that she would occasionally jump over the silk-damask chairs in the royal palace This playful trick fairly horrified her grace the duchess, who had the charge of the princess' education Her grace was one of the rectilinear kind—as compared as an oyster and as stiff as a stick—and whenever her young charge vaulted over a chair she felt that sinking sensation in the pit of the stomach from which even a duchess may not be exempt One day, just as the princess had made one of her characteristic leaps, her grace driven to extremity determined to assert the truth in the interest of genteel education

"Honored princess" said she in words to that effect "I pray you to desist from this unseemly sport. If your highness continues to vault over chairs you will, without doubt turn into a boy"

"Really will I" asked the princess doubtfully

"Alas!" exclaimed the princess "I wish I were a boy" and with one wild spring she cleared the high backed chair in which her royal father was accustomed to doze while the lord chamberlain was reading to him the state papers.

It is related that after the above conversation the intractable princess jumped and jumped until the whole court was filled with consternation There was not a chair in the palace from the summer kitchen to the throne room that she had not hopped over dozens of times and yet, though she was often spoken of as a kangaroo nobody called her a boy At last there came to the court a gallant young prince to make the acquaintance of this hopping princess and when they had met he did not call her a royal kangaroo (as she had dismally expected) but his dear little sparrow Then the princess gazed upon him tenderly and ceasing to jump sat down with him on the steps of the grand staircase and murmured that she didn't care any longer about being a boy

We have trifled somewhat with history in the telling of this story but it is, nevertheless substantially true, and even if it were not true it would yet serve well an allegorical purpose There are girls by the thousand who, like this princess of France, wish they were boys and would be willing not only to jump over chairs but to jump out of their skins as well if by so doing they could change their sex But mark this contrast while almost every healthy ambitious and spirited girl has seen the time when she wished she were a boy, there never yet was a boy (so far as heard from) who at any time wanted to be a girl Why? Simply because boys have, indisputably, the better time if there is any cream in the can they get it

We could support this statement in many ways, but in this article we shall confine ourself to making a single point The labor of the world has been in all ages divided into what was considered men's work and women's work This division has been by no means always equal, for among many uncivilized peoples the weaker vessel has been called on to carry the heavier burden In this country, however, and among the more enlightened European nations, the labor of life is pretty fairly divided between the grown up members of both sexes But between the growing members—the boys and girls—the division is in favor of the boys In most families in this country a certain amount of work is required from the children The elder girls take care of the younger children they assist their mothers in sewing and perhaps in cooking and care for their own and their brothers' rooms in order And the boys—what do they do? The boys put on the clothes that are made and mended for them, eat the meals that are cooked for them, spend the day playing out door when they are not in school and when they come home at night lie down in the beds that have been made ready for them

It may be said that boys would be called upon to do as much work as girls if there were as much work about a house that boys could do A man has his business, but a boy until he gets into business, has necessarily very little to do A boy can't run a sewing machine nor wash dishes nor make his bed nor hold the baby But why can't he? One of the manliest most energetic and most successful men that we ever knew had been a boy who did just those things His mother wisely thought that what work was to be done by her children should be equally divided between her sons and daughters She did not believe in the conventional division of labor which should leave her boys free to strengthen their strength by out door pleasures while her girls were weakening their weakness by bending over sewing machines and lugging the baby Were there more mothers like this there would be fewer pale and dispirited daughters and fewer selfish sons growing up to believe that women were made to dance to the tune of their husbands varying moods We have said were there more mothers like this because the comparative unhelpfulness and selfishness of boys is far more frequently the mother's than the father's fault Many women seem afraid to ask of their sons the same amount of sacrifice and exertion which they unhesitatingly demand of their daughters The boy is not 15 before they treat him with something of the timid deference which they are wont to show to their husbands even when denying the latter's right to it and complaining of its effects They request the boy's help as a favor instead of claiming it as an obligation and when he happens to do as he ought with out the usual amount of grumbling he is thanked with an effusion which makes him regard an act of duty as one of generosity that, on another occasion, he may refuse if he wants, and he too often wants to We are not of those who charge all the faults in the rearing of children upon their mothers, nor even upon both their parents Influences outside of the house have much to do with the early moulding of character "In the course of my long life," said the Khalif Ali, "I have often observed that men are more like the place and time they live in than they are like their parents" The influence of communal life as distinguished from family life and from individualism is indeed immense as we see in the esprit de corps so readily developed in segregated bodies of men—in the army and in great schools, like West Point and the university of Virginia, where the ideas of honor, of truthfulness and obedience to law impressed upon those institutions by their founders have been preserved in their corporate life from generation to generation A great deal is said about the influence of individuals upon a community, but the influence of the community upon individuals is far more potent. And, undoubtedly much of the unhelpfulness self will and rudeness of boys is due to general social conditions instead of defective home training to the example of other boys and to the idea which seems to pervade society at large that it is the place, and ought to be the pleasure of girls to serve them But, after all, the most powerful influence for good or ill are family influences and of family influences, that of the mother is usually the greatest Let the mothers then of this republic rear their boys to be kind and courteous to their sisters and obedient to her who bore them, and they may be sure that they will develope into men who will be kind and courteous to their wives

The question raised by a correspondent in reference to the vote upon the suffrage amendment is of no special practical importance at this time as the vote for the amendment was clearly insufficient to secure its adoption The clause of the constitution referred to is susceptible of different constructions doubtless but we think the view taken by our correspondent would not be sustained by the courts. The supreme court of the United States has decided, where a county voted to aid the construction of a railroad, that a majority of all the votes cast was the majority within the meaning of the law of that case There was no registration of voters in this state, so that the court would have no means of knowing how many electors there are It is not to be supposed that the largest number of votes cast includes them all We think that if more votes had been cast for the amendment than were cast against it it would become a part of the constitution

The senate added some items to the river and harbor bill that will perhaps get through the house by the way of a conference committee Among these items were For improving Coos bay, Oregon $25,000 mouth of the Columbia, Oregon and Washington territory $150,000 mouth of the Coquille river, Oregon $10,000 Representative George tried in vain to get something of the kind into the bill as originally reported from the house committee, but could not make headway against the democratic members Among the items of the sundry civil bill which was passed by the house on the 2d were the following of interest to Oregon

For continuing the survey of the coast of Oregon from Umpqua river southward and including such river mouths as may be specially called for and off shore on for the hydrography and survey of Columbia river and Willamette river to the head of ship navigation $1,000 for continuing the survey of the coast of Washington territory mainly for continuing triangulation topography and hydrography of the Fuca strait of the eastern end of Puget sound and of Possession sound $[illegible] for tide observations on the Pacific coast $240

The first campaign document will be the Blaine letter of acceptance A gentleman who has been in Maine and has talked with Mr Blaine over a rough draft of it, says it will be one of the most interesting state papers in the history of American politics It will outline the policy of Mr Blaine's administration, and it will set forth in a clear and masterly way his views as to commercial and foreign policy and will commend the candidate to the business interests, to all who have the good of the country at heart and to every man who is proud of the American name No one said the gentleman after reading the letter of acceptance will feel that Mr Blaine need be given the advice of the British foreign office to one of its prime ministers—put a little more starch in your shirt collar It will be a letter which will be in the fullest and broadest sense American

The long expected nominations are beginning to be made at Washington Now Alaska's governor is selected from Nevada and Register Armstrong of the Spokane land office is reappointed It was probably found impracticable to appoint a governor for Alaska from among the residents of the territory and it was certainly impossible to find a better register for any land office than T M Armstrong The disappointed Alaskans who expected to be made governor just because they happened to live in the territory have our heartfelt sympathy

SUIT DISMISSED.—It has been agreed between the parties to the suit of W J White vs. C. L. Spore and all the officers of the city of East Portland, in which the plaintiff claims damages for falling through the L street elevated roadway while it was being rebuilt, to dismiss the case without prejudice and this will undoubtedly be done today. One of the reasons for this is understood that the plaintiff is a resident of Montana and that therefore the United States court does not have jurisdiction. The case will probably be brought up again in the state circuit court. "Why is it that the U S court has no jurisdiction in this matter?" asked an OREGONIAN reporter of Judge Deady. "I only know what I have seen of the case in the papers," answered the judge, "but if the plaintiff is a resident of Montana the court has no jurisdiction. This is an old decision of Chief Justice Marshall a long time ago. The case first arose in the district of Columbia which it was decided was not a state within the meaning of the law. The litigation may be between citizens of two states or between a citizen of a state and a foreigner, but the citizen of a territory must have recourse to the state courts. The decision in regard to the District of Columbia was held to apply to territories and I myself have so ruled. It seems hard as a territory eventually becomes a state. I think this ruling should be changed by the U S supreme court."

PREPARATIONS FOR THE CIRCUS.—Everything that it is possible to do to accommodate the people and to offset the unavoidable necessity of locating the tents on the outskirts of the city has been arranged for. The United Carriage and Baggage Transfer Company have agreed to run their buses from central points in the city to the head of B street for 10 cents a passenger each way to and from every performance on Monday and Tuesday. The Multnomah street railway will put on an extra number of cars and these will be on hand at the close of the performances to accommodate as many as possible. The great crowding to get tickets upon the circus ground has also been anticipated, and those who desire it can secure both admission tickets and tickets for reserved seats at D W Prentice's music store at an advance of only 10 cents over the regular price. This is an opportunity that citizens should not neglect. By buying tickets before going to the grounds the crowd may be avoided, pickpockets will be baffled and swindlers will have no chance to cheat you. If one goes with the intention of buying tickets at the grounds it will be well to have the exact change ready and thus avoid any possibility of being swindled in any manner. Cole and his employes are undoubtedly honorable men but there are any number of thieves who follow the show and are ready at all times in a hundred unheard of ways to fleece the unwary.

UNKNOWN DEAD.—Every day brings one or more accounts of human life lost while salmon fishing at the mouth of the Columbia and in nearly every case the victim is some poor foreigner who is unknown or at least without any friends to care for his remains. If any value at all was placed upon these human lives the price of salmon would advance considerably. The Astorian of yesterday says: "The body of a man who had been fishing for the West Coast packing company was brought to Coroner Franklin's by John Nichols of one of John A Devlin's boats yesterday afternoon. Up to a late hour he had not been identified. Boat No 13 of the Point Adams packing company was picked up off Sand island yesterday and it is feared that Jas Gregg the captain and the boat puller are drowned." In another paragraph the same paper says: "It is now feared that John Olsen, a well known resident of upper Astoria, is drowned, a man whom it is believed was his boat puller is reported found drowned at Sand island, and a coffin will be taken down this morning. Olsen has not been heard from since Monday night." In this last case the victim has friends and relatives and his death will be sincerely mourned.

CUT WORMS.—The ravages of cut worms are unprecedented and cover almost all the growths of the farm, says the editor of the Willamette Farmer. "We have always known that they damaged gardens, but this year they go outside of corn and cabbage and cut down potato vines, injure wheat somewhat and take large fields of oats. Even hop yards are injured great damage is done to them by the cut worms eating off the growing shoots that will bear hops this season. Mr Settlemeier of Woodburn, one of the most successful nurserymen in Oregon, has suffered great injury from them as they eat out the germs of the grafts and so prevent their growth. Some are killed. He estimates his losses at $2000 from them. While they prevail generally to some extent they exist in particular localities in multitudes and fairly become a scourge. Various surmises are made as to their origin in such numbers but none we have heard seems to meet the case. It is said that they are more than commonly numerous also east of the Cascades."

COMPETITION FOR THE THOMPSON MEDALS.—Messrs J L Gill, Wm M Ladd, E M Clinton and S B Pettengill and Mesdames C E Sitton and E P Frazer, the committee appointed to examine the competitors for the Thompson medals, met yesterday at the Central school and began their task. The medals, one to each school, which are the gifts of Hon D P Thompson for excellence in reading, are of solid plate gold to be suitably engraved for the winner and were first awarded in June 1881. The contestants for the present year numbered in all fifty four pupils from the various schools. Selections were made by the committee and after all had read once they proceeded to choose the five or six readers from each school who had shown the most excellence. Those pupils chosen from the Harrison street and North schools were again examined and the reading of those from the Central and High schools will be continued this morning at 9 o'clock. The announcement of the winners of the medals will not be made until next Tuesday.

ASSIGNMENT FOR THE BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.—J G Durner, the candy merchant, yesterday made an assignment of all his property to F A E Starr of East Portland for the benefit of his creditors. Durner's store has been attached for a week past by L De Martini & Co of San Francisco to secure a debt of $376 and the place has been in the hands of a receiver. The matter has been kept from the public for it was believed that Durner would soon be over his embarrassment and be able to meet all his bills. But the candy business became very dull and seeing that he would not be able to realize upon his stock swiftly enough to satisfy his San Francisco creditors and therefore to save friends in this city who had favored him with credit he made the assignment. He believes that in the hands of an assignee his stock can be sold for more than his liabilities, which are only $80 47, and that he will therefore be enabled to pay dollar for dollar.

SAW THE ELEPHANT.—John Hamlin, who arrived here yesterday from Bake Oven, Wasco county, to see the circus, was enticed into Sam Neville's joint at the corner of Alder and Second streets last evening and induced to play at some sort of an alleged game which he knew nothing about and at which he was robbed of $47 50. He applied to the police and Officers Barry and Simmons arrested Mike Myers alias Virginia Mike on a charge of robbing Hamlin. The latter, who says he has been engaged in breaking horses, is satisfied with the circus he has enjoyed, although he has seen nothing but the elephant, and will return to Bake Oven at once. Neville's place is becoming notorious if it has not always been, and should be suppressed. If there is no law to close such a disorderly den it is time one was made. No license should be granted for such a den of thieves as it appears to be.

VICTIM OF A HOMICIDE.—Julius Frazier, who has been at St Vincent's hospital in this city for several weeks, died yesterday from the effects of wounds which he received on the night of April 5 at Trullinger's mill in Clatsop county while engaged in a quarrel with Jas Reeves. Just what the difficulty was about has never been definitely settled, but Reeves shot Frazier and claimed that he did it in self defense. The case was published in the OREGONIAN at the time and all the details which could be obtained were very meagre. Reeves was admitted to bail but since the news of Frazier's death has reached Astoria he has been re-arrested and is now confined in the county jail at that place awaiting the action of the grand jury.

VALUE OF PURE GOLD.—Referring to the article in yesterday's OREGONIAN concerning the rich discovery of gold and silver in Clackamas county by Andy Wyland, J H Fisk, an assayer of this city, writes as follows: "You make an error in regard to the price of refined gold. One ounce of pure gold is only worth $20 67 18 100. Jewelers calculate the fineness of gold in carats, calling 24 carats pure gold, hence the impression that one ounce is worth $24. The United States mints and assay offices calculate the fineness of gold and silver in 1000 of 10 grains or 10 grains. It matters not by what weights the fineness is obtained, whether carats, grains or grams, the value is always the same—$20 67 18 100 per ounce."

WORSE THAN A BEAST.—A drunken woman who gave the name of Mrs Mary Conlo was arrested at the corner of Tenth and E streets yesterday afternoon. When brought to the jail she was found to have $420 on her person, and also papers which showed that she was begging for assistance to take her home. She says she came from Denver and has been at Coeur d'Alene. She was very violent and abusive and is evidently a fraud who has been imposing upon people. Later in the day the police found a little girl belonging to her with some Italians on Seventh street. She had left the girl at the hotel in the morning and gone off on a spree. She is one of the vilest characters ever lodged in the city jail.

INJUNCTION GRANTED AND SUSPENDED.—W T Coleman & Co, in their suit against the White Star and Pacific Union salmon packing companies, wherein they claim the right to handle all fish put up by these canneries, yesterday obtained injunctions against both companies preventing them from disposing of their fish to any one other than the plaintiff. The two companies, however, furnished bonds and the injunction will be suspended during the present season. After that the cases will again come up for trial and if Coleman & Co win ample bonds have been provided to indemnify them for any loss they may sustain by not handling the entire pack of these two companies.

SEASIDE HOTEL OPEN.—Charles Oble, with his force of cooks, waiters, etc, has taken possession of the Sea Side house (Clatsop) and the establishment will be thrown open for the reception of guests today. There are already quite a number of people sojourning at the shore and the regular tide of summer travel will commence directly after the 1st of July.

YELLOWSTONE PARK HOTEL.—A private dispatch to the Northern Pacific passenger department received yesterday announces that all financial troubles at the Yellowstone park hotel have been settled and that the hotel will be open for guests with every accommodation on the 20th of next month.

BAND OF HOPE SPECIAL MEETING.—The members of Bethel Band of Hope No 1 are urgently requested to meet in Bethel hall to-day (Saturday) at 2 P M. Very important business.

WILLAMETTE PARK

Is now opened for the season on Wednesday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons, for dancing, bicycling, skating and other sports. Professor Davis' string band is engaged and Mr A B Pringle will manage the dancing pavilion. F T Merrill will manage the out door sports. The management will spare no expense in making this park the handsomest and most attractive in the northwest. On Sunday a grand half-mile foot race for a purse of $50 and the third trial for the 5 mile amateur bicycle cup.

W. J. Quinn, Merchant Tailor,

28 Stark st, will make to order 500 business suits of fine English and Scotch suitings. The goods are all new but arrived two months too late for the season, and must be sold at a loss.

FIRES LAST NIGHT

Albina's First Blaze—Five Buildings Destroyed—Two's Engine Saves the Town

About half past 12 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the two story frame building on the northeast corner of Loring and Stark streets, Albina, occupied by Wertheimer as a general merchandise store. It communicated across Stark street to a two-story frame building occupied on the first floor as the Head Light saloon and J E Fitzpatrick, cigar and notion dealer, and on the second floor as a lodging house kept by Mr Countiss. Fire from this building communicated to a two-story building owned by Mrs Ford and occupied as a restaurant by Mitchell & Dixon. Wertheimer's fire also communicated to Mrs Barko's boarding house, a two-story building. A Stoltz's one story frame dwelling situated between the Headlight saloon and the Key City house was partly destroyed. At this point the fire was checked.

An alarm was turned in from box 13, corner Fifth and D streets, the fire appearing to be in the north part of the city instead of across the river. The department responded promptly hurrying out North Front street. The Albina ferry had just finished her last trip and lay at the east slip, fortunately with fifty pounds of steam in the boiler, which Engineer Gates soon increased. Two companies waited at the landing for a few minutes, the flames seeming to subside. All at once a fresh outburst was observed and Chief Engineer Jordan decided to send Two's engine and hose cart, he accompanying them. Passage across the river was made without delay and the engine took suction in the river at the lower end of Montgomery's wharf. At this time it looked as if one entire block if not indeed the entire business part of the town would go. Albina had no fire extinguishing apparatus and the newly organized hook and ladder company could do nothing except tear down a few small out buildings. There was a stiff breeze from the north with nothing to break it and the flames fanned it into a gale. The entire population turned out and worked vigorously with buckets to save neighboring property, but they would have been powerless without the Portland engine. When its stream, which had to go through 600 feet of hose or more, got to playing the flames had enveloped Stoltz's dwelling and were lapping on the Key City house. Soon the steamer began its hum, which was music to the citizens, and kept up a strong steady stream until the fire was entirely subdued. Contents of all the buildings facing the railroad from the west were removed. As the weather was fine loss by removal will not be heavy.

At the late hour it was not possible to get an accurate list of losses. Wertheimer's is estimated at $2500, probably fully insured. Head Light saloon about $1000, insured in Boyd's agency. Fitzpatrick's cigar store $880, insured $600 in Boyd's agency. The building occupied by the two latter was owned by Mrs Ford, insured. Countiss' lodging house $500, probably not insured. Mrs Barko was partly insured. Mitchell & Dixon saved most of their effects. Mr Knox owned the dwelling occupied by Stoltz, probably insured. Wertheimer could not be seen and the origin of the fire is not known.

THE OREGONIAN is indebted to Captain Tucker of the Albina ferry for promptness in transferring its reporter who visited the fire and enabling him to get the report in this morning's paper.

Blaze in a Lodging house

The alarm turned in at 11 15 last night was for a fire in a lodging house kept by Mrs Canning at No 98 D street, between First and Second. The alarm was sounded by Policeman Belcher and for some reason the bell kept ringing for about ten minutes, causing many to suppose that the alarm was only some trouble with the wires. However two engines went thundering down town and another started for the south end of the city owing to the mixed up alarm. The fire appears to have broken out in the kitchen and having got into the walls took some time to extinguish. The building belongs to S G Reed and was damaged about $300. There was about $1000 worth of furniture in the house, a portion of which was saved. The loss on the furniture will amount to about $500. Mrs Canning says she had some insurance on it but the policy was cancelled. She says she was told that it would be placed in some other company but knows nothing more about it. One of the lodgers crawled out at a second story window and hung to the sill until he was rescued. A drunken fellow named John McCarty made some bother at the fire by getting in the way and was run in by Belcher. The Boston Schooner saloon, owned by Jacob Gerdes, was deluged with water and the billiard table and stock of cigars considerably damaged. This loss is covered by insurance.

AMUSEMENTS.

NARCISSE.—Last evening Herr Bandmann appeared in his great character of "Narcisse" at New Market theater, supported by the full company. Bandmann in the character of the deserted husband, outcast and vagabond French Jester, probably has no equal—certainly no superior—on the speaking stage. His rendition was masterly, and in some of the climax scenes rose to the highest plane of dramatic power and intensity. He was promptly supported by John Lindsay who assumed the important role of Duc de Choiseuile; Miss Beaudet as Quinault; Miss V Vernay as Mme Le Marquise de Pompadour; Miss Mary Brewer as Mme de Epinay; Miss Mary Law, ... as Jorge; ... A Lestine as Capt St Lambert; J F K Herd as Du Barri. The acting of Mr Lindsay was fully up to that gentleman's usual standard of excellence. Miss Beaudet dressed the part in excellent taste and her acting was earnest and pleasing. Miss Vernay appeared to the best advantage since the opening of the engagement. Her costumes were rich and elegant and her rendering of the part was strong, intense and characterized by a dignity, stately and regal. To these essentials the lady added a fine form and admirable stage presence.

This afternoon a matinee performance will be given when for the first time in the dramatic history of the city "A Woman of the People" will be presented.

... of Sydney, Australia, addressed the following letter to the Herald of that city in reference to a rendition he witnessed of "A Woman of the People": "For many years past I have abstained from the theater from the feeling that the ordinary plays presented to the public missed their object as expressed by our great drama tist—the immortal Shakespeare—whose end, both at the first and now, was and is to hold as 'twere the mirror up to nature, to show virtue her own feature, scorn her own image and the very age and body of the time its form and pressure. Rather it seemed to me that the aim and intention of too many of the writers for the stage was to pander to unwholesome tastes and feelings, and to present scenes at once gross, sensational and corrupt. Having had the opportunity of witnessing 'A Woman of the People' I have no hesitation whatever in expressing my conviction that it achieved in a very marked manner the desired object I have indicated and must influence many who are able to see it for good. It is a true picture of life, powerfully exciting the good impulses which the Creator has implanted in our breasts, and holding up to scorn and detestation that well known character in the world, 'the jolly good fellow,' who by his own absence of self restraint becomes the ruin of others and the blight of many homes. It is free from coarseness and vulgarity while it points most strongly to the moral, the evil of over indulgence in drink."

To-night will be the farewell appearance of Bandmann. Richard III will be presented.

THE TIVOLI.—Every seat was occupied last night at the fifth performance of "La Grand Duchesse" at the Tivoli. It is noticeable that the character of the audiences improves as the season advances and that society people attend in large numbers. Matinee at 2 P M to-day.

TURN HALLE.—To-morrow night the Turn Verein will reopen their new hall, corner of Fourth and Yamhill, with gymnastic exercises in which the children's classes as well as the adults will take part, choruses by the singing section and a short drama, the entertainment to conclude with a hop.

POLICE COURT

Judge Moreland yesterday rendered a decision in the case of H Clarke, charged with larceny of money from his late employer Howe the bookbinder. He said that there had not been evidence sufficient to establish the guilt of the defendant beyond a reasonable doubt. It might be possible that he took the money. Yet he was very loth to believe such a thing of a man who had established so good a character for himself as Clarke had by the testimony of his neighbors. Howe had given no good reason for not seeing Clarke pick up the money if he had taken it. As the latter had established a good character for himself it was entitled to some weight and he would order that the defendant be discharged. The other charge against Clarke of larceny of a book was continued, District Attorney Caples stating that he was of opinion that it would not be brought to trial. Clarke has been in the employ of Howe for about two years and left a short time since. The charge was a very serious matter for a man who has to depend upon his labor for the support of himself and family and he was much relieved by the decision in the case.

In the case of Ida Thornton and J J Riley, charged with assault on Mrs Crook, the judge ordered that the former pay a fine of $20 as she was the principal offender. Riley was discharged.

James Marr pleaded guilty to a charge of using abusive language to Fred Love and was fined $10. To a counter charge of abusing Marr, Love pleaded not guilty and the case was continued.

Thomas Daly was tried on a charge of lewd cohabitation and the matter taken under advisement.

Mrs Smith, the aboriginal, when asked to plead to the charge of disorderly conduct, with an intelligent and interested air ... A J Moses ... explained the situation to her in classic ... Chinook ... "I know nothing about it." She was fined $10 and clattered to her seat in a hurry.

I Crainger and Harry Boothby, arrested for being drunk and disorderly, did not appear when their names were called and their bail of $10 each was declared forfeited.

A VOICE FROM "THE HOLE" THAT WITHDREW

An Outsider Who Thinks that the Doctor Was Too Much Overjoyed at the Departure of His Opponents

The interview with Rev F R Marvin which was printed in yesterday morning's OREGONIAN has brought out in reply two communications that are presented here, both of which are opposed to the sentiments as expressed by the doctor. One of them is from the man whose name was written where "the hole" afterward appeared and the other is from an outsider who was moved by reading the interview to express upon paper the thoughts which it aroused in his mind. Following are the communications:

Concerning the Interview

PORTLAND, June 27.

To the EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The item in this morning's OREGONIAN relating to an interview with Rev Frederic R Marvin, M D, affords good reading and his remarks as therein detailed amply illustrate the spirit which made it possible for a minority to exist, even small though it may be. Except for unwarrantable dictation upon his part and a fixed determination to have his own way regardless of consequences and in a manner utterly subversive of all Christian charity there had been no such thing as the unhappy controversy through which the First Congregational church of Portland has been passing for the past few months. Those who composed the minority were too good Congregationalists tamely to submit to methods totally at variance with recognized Congregational principles as set forth by the leading exponents thereof from one end of the United States to the other without objection. And now since there was no disposition upon the part of Dr Marvin or any of his followers to do otherwise than to ignore the minority at all hazards, a portion of them desired to unite with a sister church that they might be at peace and be in a condition to try and do effectual Christian work. This they sought to do quietly without desiring or expecting so very much public comment. But no, the profound Dr Marvin doubtless felt in the seeming triumph of his peculiar methods he must needs make an exhibition of his Christian meanness.

The doctor is really facetious in his reference to a hole. He did not seem to understand that it was prepared specially for him to fall in. That this fact he has accomplished admirably and his unaltered efforts are worthy of great praise. As the time approaches when he will be anxious to extricate himself from the hole into which he has so unwittingly plumped himself it may be that he will gladly avail himself of the good offices of the minority who will only be too glad to render assistance to a brother in distress.

Finally, many of Mr Marvin's followers have regretted that his course has been unwise in many respects and they doubtless will feel sad that their pastor has transgressed so violently the principles which should govern the conduct of a professed Christian minister as indicated by this morning's interview.

THE "HOLE"

Paroxysms of Delight

PORTLAND, June 2...

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It is said that Nero, a tyrant and most cruel emperor of ancient Rome, in the year A D 64, with his own hand applied the torch, destroying about two thirds of that great city, and as he watched the progress of the flames from the top of a high tower he made merry and amused himself with playing on the flute the drama of the destruction of Troy. He sought however to transfer the odium of the conflagration to the Christians, many of whom he caused to be put to death.

The above was brought vividly to mind on reading with a mixture of sadness and indignation the account given this morning of an interview had by a reporter of THE OREGONIAN with the Rev F R Marvin on Thursday evening, a short time after letters of withdrawal had been unanimously granted to a number of old and honored members of the church, and noting the paroxysms of delight manifested by the reverend gentleman as he contemplated from his cozy and well lighted parlor the disruption of that old landmark, the First Congregational church organization of Portland, Oregon.

Keen Observation

The other night, when Mr Harvey Bi..., a well known citizen of Arkansas, went home he had reached that close observing stage of intoxication when a man stops and minutely examines the most unimportant objects and makes wise comments. In this state of drunkenness a man takes notice of every household article. Every chair commands a certain amount of attention. After sitting down with studied gravity Mr Harvey Bi... noticed a feather lying on the floor. He debated for a while whether or not it would be an illustration of sobriety to remove it, and remembering that he had often seen his wife pick feathers from the carpet after having jammed the pillows in making the bed, he arose, took up the feather, examined it a moment, raised a window and threw it out. This performance did not entirely satisfy him, for in his mind here lurked a suspicion that his wife might fancy him to be drunk. In looking around for another test he discovered the water bucket. He knew that to bring fresh water would beyond a doubt settle the question of his sobriety, so he took up the bucket and went out to the well. Feeling around and not finding the usual covered bucket, but deciding that it must be at the bottom of the well, he began to turn the windlass. For fifteen minutes he turned the crank. "Deepest well I ever saw," he mused, and continued to grind. After a while his wife came out and said:

"Harvey, what in the name of common sense are you doing?"

"Trying to draw bucket water. Deepest well ever saw. Grind for hour bucket not up yet."

"Why don't you know that we had the well cleaned out and that the bucket has been taken off? Come on away. You are as drunk as a fool."

"Hounds observation I ever saw," said the unfortunate gentleman to himself. "Never saw thing like it."

THE GERMAN AMERICAN SCHOOL.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Permit me to say a few words of the International academy, but as few of your readers may know of this institution I would state that it is a German-American school where all the English branches are taught as in the grammar and high schools of our city, with the addition of the German and Latin languages. The school is under the immediate tutorship of Professor R Schiedt, a gentleman who has studied many years for this particular purpose, and is highly qualified to not alone teach our children the three R's, but imbue them with higher and grander ideas of this life, and that not everything depends on fine clothes or how to poise a dude cane to attract most attention. Mr Schiedt is assisted by Miss Buckmayer, a graduate of the St Mary's college of this city, and Professor Bolander. This eminent scholar, who is an authority, is already well known and needs no special recommendation at my hands.

I had the pleasure of being present at the final public examination and must confess that I was surprised at the proficiency of these children in all the branches and more particularly in Latin and natural history, this latter branch with astronomy and geology being under the care of Professor Bolander.

Space forbids expressing all I would like to, but suffice to say that one of my children is now in attendance and it is my intention to send the other this fall.

In his closing address Professor Schiedt remarked that if they received the proper encouragement they intended to make this academy not alone an honor to this city but to the state of Oregon.

As the cost of tuition is but a trifle it ought to be supported by those who study the best interests of their children, and to this end all parents who have children now in attendance will no doubt bear me witness.

I thank you for the space occupied but I know that you are always ready and willing to give honor to whom honor is due.

A million families that have used it for a quarter of a century.

It is an old trick of the Royal Company to throw dirt, crying lime and potash, transposing dates, parading black lines, and alleged Government Chemists, in order to detract public notice from the disgusting drug ammonia in their powder. They know that Dr. Price's does not contain ammonia, lime or potash.

DO NOT TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT. LET EVERY HOUSEKEEPER PROVE IT.

A FABLE

Many years ago when there were not enough men to bother the animals there was a grand race between the horses and the mules to try which could go across the country first Coming to a large river which they must cross the horses got upon a platform constructed for them selecting the best one among them to manage the crossing Just as they had pushed off from the shore an Old Gelding began to kick and declare that he would rather take his chances with the mules whose characteristics were such as to put him more in sympathy with them anyhow The other horses made no objection not caring to have either their platform or their comrades kicked by so treacherous an animal so he jumped overboard and climbed upon an island to await the coming of the mules who were somewhat behind though the race was hardly begun As soon as they came in sight the mules were delighted and offered to let Old Gelding assist in steering across the river if he would be kind enough to take a front seat and neigh loudly, as he could do better than they having been a horse with the horses so long. It is true said he "that I can excel you in this particular accomplishment. Who is the leader? When told he was again angry, and said he would remain alone upon the island and be an Independent The mules had lost so much time before receiving his final neigh that they never again came in sight of the horses who won the race in an easy trot and were thereafter masters of the country The Old Gelding never left the island, but gave forth a Weekly Neigh which was heard by the other animals as they went to drink on either side of him

Moral—Never give yourself away by admitting that to make the world better you must get out of it

Colonel Cuvier Grover First cavalry was at headquarters on Monday

General O D Greene and family arrived safely in Washington early in the month and are comfortably installed in their new quarters General Greene assumed duties as chief of the volunteer service and enlisted volunteer pension branch in the adjutant general s office

Major Downey at the last moment received orders that his presence would be required at a meeting of the board of officers of which he is a member which will leave the gallant major with us a short time longer, and deprive his company H, of his presence on the trip to the new station.

New York Graphic

A good story was recently told of Abraham Lincoln to a Graphic man by an old Boston editor while sitting together in the Ebbitt house Washington Ben Perley Poore formed one of the group and remarks on convention topics being in order, some caustic comments were made on Robert T Lincoln Naturally this called up the memory of his father and as might have been expected in such a company several anecdotes were related But one was new and especially good Oliver P Morton then war governor of Indiana arrived one day early in 1864 at the capital He was personally unknown by the staff at the White house and having driven there direct as he had to see Mr Lincoln at once his unshaven dusty appearance with western look and linen duster won him no special attention Mr Lincoln was at the war department and the persistent Governor who did not give his name was somewhat airily and brusquely treated by the junior private secretary John Hay Morton left went to his hotel washed shaved etc and with an hour returned to the White house His name was sent in and he followed immediately A long, and of course interesting conference followed The two statesmen were personal friends of long standing After business was through Mr Lincoln said "Oliver why did I not see you before the governor having sent word the hour of his arrival I had to admit explanation and then Morton asked who was that dapper young man out there in [illegible] Mr Lincoln [illegible] described and [illegible] Who [illegible] John Hay [illegible] is a nice young man [illegible] but it tickles him [illegible] and as it amuses him and I don't really hurt anyone else let him think so Oliver I let him think so Governor Morton told the story himself in a company of which the Boston man was one

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath are the Pimples, Sties, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system While it remains it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor and weariness—often in this spoken of as only spring fever These are evidences that Nature is not able unaided to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces To regain health Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine, and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world It is, in the language of the Hon Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, the only preparation that does real lasting good
